Tips for Using the Databases

We have MANY databases. Choose the ones that will provide the best information pertaining to the topic of your research.

- Do I need information on a person? Good starting point would be biographical information
- Is my person someone currently in the press/news? Is my person from the past? Current news related individuals can be found in reputable newspaper/magazines

The screenshot shows the MackinVIA website interface. At the top, there's a search bar with 'literature' entered and a yellow star icon next to it. Below the search bar, there's a navigation menu with options like 'All Resources', 'Groups', 'Categories', 'eBooks', 'Databases', 'Videos', and 'Links'. The 'Databases' section is highlighted. The search results show two databases: 'Literary reference center' by EBSCO Publishing (Firm) and 'Literature resource center' by Gale (Firm). Each database entry includes a description, a 'More Info' link, and a star rating. There are also 'Open Now' and 'Add To Favorites' buttons for each database.

Colin Kaepernick UPDATED!

Colin Kaepernick is an unsigned (free agent) American professional football player. Most recently, he was the quarterback for the San Francisco 49ers of the National Football League (NFL). A three-sport star in football, baseball, and basketball as a high school athlete, Kaepernick was a second-round draft pick of the 49ers in 2011. He made an unexpected leap to stardom during the 2012 NFL season. Upon making his pro debut, Kaepernick transformed the middling 49ers into a favorite and quickly became one of the league's most recognizable and marketable personalities. Kaepernick's fame entered a new phase in 2016, when—to protest police... View More
